

SPANIARDS KILL EACH OTHER

Columns Meet in the Dark and Exchange Volleys with Deadly Effect.

FULL DETAILS OF THE DELGADO OUTRAGE

American Citizens Insulted by a Brigadier and shot Like Dogs Without a Shadow of Trial.

(Copyright, 1896, by Press Publishing Company.) HAVANA, March 15.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—The vicinity of Marianao, a pretty suburb of Havana, clear the sea, six miles to the westward, a favorite abiding place for well-to-do citizens, was the scene last night of a terrible catastrophe, the exact locality being Cano, a sugar estate near Marianao. Spanish column No. 7, moving in dense tropical darkness, unexpectedly came on another detachment of Spanish troops known technically as the Ilerena column. The commander of each column mistook the other for an insurgent and the two columns were burning from incendiary fire, and the lieutenant colonel commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

The affair is important aside from its unfortunate nature, in that the American consuls commanding the battalion San Quintin proceeded to the spot. As his command approached it was fired upon without warning, without even a call for halt. He naturally returned the fire, and several volleys were discharged before the mistake was discovered. One captain, four lieutenants and twelve soldiers had been killed and twenty-seven wounded. A small band of rebels had been seen only a few minutes previous, and they were supposed to have returned again.

Dr. Delgado did not dare to go out of the house. He had no food and no one ventured to go near him. He finally succeeded in sending for a doctor and a nurse, but without giving particulars. The consul general visited the palace and General Weyler informed him that he would investigate the case.

Last night the elder Delgado reached Havana in a feeble condition and half dead from weakness following hunger and excitement. He was attended by a doctor and a nurse at his home and on the Delores plantation, unable to move hand or foot. He will be brought to Havana as soon as possible.

When the elder Delgado made an official statement to Consul General Williams under oath, and the above is a condensation of it.

The bullet which wounded Dr. Delgado struck the thigh bone and went against some hard substance in the ground. His father brought it to the consul general's office, together with the blood-stained clothing worn by his son.

Consul General Williams reached the palace last evening, just as General Weyler was stepping into his carriage, but Weyler insisted on returning to his office and immediately complied with Williams' request for an order to bring young Delgado to Havana. Delgado's statement will be sent to the department at Washington. Delgado has been besieged by press correspondents. He returns to Dolores today.

WILLIAM SHAW BOWEN.

WEYLER'S WORD GOES TO PROTEST. Not Able to Redeem the Promises He Made Cuban Planners.

(Copyright, 1896, by Press Publishing Company.) HAVANA, Cuba, March 15.—(via Key West, Fla.)—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—When General Weyler came to this city five weeks ago as the new governor-general of Cuba and successor to General Canovas, he made the following promises:

First.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Second.—To have the four western provinces of Matanzas, Havana, Pinar del Rio and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Third.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Fourth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Fifth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Sixth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Seventh.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Eighth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Ninth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Tenth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Eleventh.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Twelfth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Thirteenth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Fourteenth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Fifteenth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Sixteenth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Seventeenth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Eighteenth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Nineteenth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

Twentieth.—To have all plantations in Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces grinding cane by March 15.

ANARCHISTS MORE ACTIVE

Mobs in Barcelona Give the Reds Exercise for Demonstrations.

AIM AT FORCING THE GOVERNMENT'S HAND

Hotting Around the American Consulate Rescued by the Students and Checked by the Soldiers After Repeated Charges.

(Copyright, 1896, by Press Publishing Company.) BARCELONA, Spain, March 15.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Demonstrations here against the United States are taking an anarchistic character, the more gravely serious from the recollection of the bomb explosions in a theater two years ago, only a little distance from our consulate. Several anarchists have been arrested during the past week, and last night they had a meeting in view of the demonstrations, the United States consulate was again guarded today by cavalry. An excited body of students, followed by a considerable mob, this time more determined and demonstrative than on any previous occasion, rushed down the principal street, reaching to the office of Credit Lyonnais, one block from the consulate. Here they were charged by troops and there were many broken heads.

The anarchistic element is evidently anxious to force the hands of the government by the use of force. The captain general's force is made that the captain general should prohibit the use of force in the disorderly manifestations continue.

Consul General Bunn sleeps in the consulate with a servant as an attendant. Shows today presage an end to the disastrous drought.

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

AMONG SUFFERING ARMENIANS.

Miss Clara Barton Writes from Constantinople, February 25. Miss Barton says:

"Immediately on our arriving here, Judge Terrell lost no time in notifying the Turkish government and asking an audience for me with the foreign minister. This was granted and held on the 15th. We were informed that the permit was granted for my party to enter into the interior to afford relief to the suffering people there, and that no objections would be put in our way. Mr. Terrell's ordinary labor, it is supposed to be done, but the permit or papers are to be signed by the sultan. This is the time of the great fast of Ramadan, during which no work but the ordinary labor, it is supposed to be done, and the papers have thus waited until now. Minister Terrell yesterday demanded, through the Russian ambassador, that the papers be constantly ready to be signed in order to be ready for favorable action immediately."

Since the date of this letter cable dispatches have announced the signing of the permit and the issuance of the necessary permits and passports. The report continues: "Meanwhile, we are not losing a moment's time. Dreadful news is being received from the field of Zeiton. It has not failed to reach you, for it went to the press."

"Sir Philip Currie asked that I send relief to the suffering people in the form of ready for shipment, with the necessary permits and passports. Our agents are today purchasing supplies to be taken by caravan from Alexandria. There are always two boats ready to start about one week going over, and this occupies a week in the voyage across. Our dragomen are waiting for the guard to be provided and Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit."

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

A letter from Rev. Dr. Johnson Smith, secretary of the Cuban board of Foreign Missions, addressed to the representatives of the Red Cross here, said: "I have been delighted to learn of Miss Barton's entry into the Cuban territory. It is a great interview and of the freedom which has been extended to the Red Cross society for its gratuitous work of relief in every part of the island."

Dr. Hubert will see what need there is for food and other materials to help the destitute people to raise something for themselves. He will employ our customary methods in the endeavor to assist people to provide for themselves as soon as circumstances will permit.

ANOTHER SOUDAN CAMPAIGN

Great Britain Announces Her Determination to the Powers.

MAY HAVE VERY STARTLING RESULTS

France is Not Satisfied with the New Movement and Protests from This Direction May Mean Much.

(Copyrighted, 1896, by the Associated Press.) LONDON, March 15.—The Associated press is able to state in connection with the reopened Egyptian question that the British government consulted and obtained the approval of a majority of the powers before deciding upon the advance upon Dongola. This makes the new Sudan campaign of far-reaching political importance in its bearing upon Great Britain's relations with the European powers.

The disclosures by recent events of Great Britain's complete and friendless isolation in the community of nations has given a shock and a feeling of uneasiness to the responsible statesmanship of Great Britain has been frankly admitted by British statesmen themselves. That England's diplomacy has been busy with efforts to make some inroads into the universal hostility of nations has been generally understood. When the terms of the settlement of the dispute over the boundaries between the possessions of Great Britain and France were made known the public expression of the opinion that the substantial concessions made by Great Britain, and the opinion was generally held that Great Britain sought to procure an entente with France, consideration for these concessions. Many commentators professed to see confirmation of this opinion in the suggestion offered by the sultan a little later to Lord Salisbury that England should regulate the situation in Egypt. It was suggested that the sultan's suggestion was inspired by Great Britain itself in order to open up a course for the evacuation of Egypt, thus removing the principal cause of irritation between Great Britain and France.

WILL OPPOSE FRANCE. The announcement of the new Sudan campaign and a convincing evidence that there is to be no rapprochement between Great Britain and France. If further evidence were needed of this, it was seen in the public expression of the opinion that the substantial concessions made by Great Britain, and the opinion was generally held that Great Britain sought to procure an entente with France, consideration for these concessions. Many commentators professed to see confirmation of this opinion in the suggestion offered by the sultan a little later to Lord Salisbury that England should regulate the situation in Egypt. It was suggested that the sultan's suggestion was inspired by Great Britain itself in order to open up a course for the evacuation of Egypt, thus removing the principal cause of irritation between Great Britain and France.

WILL OPPOSE FRANCE. The announcement of the new Sudan campaign and a convincing evidence that there is to be no rapprochement between Great Britain and France. If further evidence were needed of this, it was seen in the public expression of the opinion that the substantial concessions made by Great Britain, and the opinion was generally held that Great Britain sought to procure an entente with France, consideration for these concessions. Many commentators professed to see confirmation of this opinion in the suggestion offered by the sultan a little later to Lord Salisbury that England should regulate the situation in Egypt. It was suggested that the sultan's suggestion was inspired by Great Britain itself in order to open up a course for the evacuation of Egypt, thus removing the principal cause of irritation between Great Britain and France.

WILL OPPOSE FRANCE. The announcement of the new Sudan campaign and a convincing evidence that there is to be no rapprochement between Great Britain and France. If further evidence were needed of this, it was seen in the public expression of the opinion that the substantial concessions made by Great Britain, and the opinion was generally held that Great Britain sought to procure an entente with France, consideration for these concessions. Many commentators professed to see confirmation of this opinion in the suggestion offered by the sultan a little later to Lord Salisbury that England should regulate the situation in Egypt. It was suggested